

My Philosophy Of Education

I believe students are representatives of change and in order for them to succeed and be leaders in society they need to learn social responsibility and how to take charge of their learning not only in school but in lifelong learning situations. I want students to learn how to be responsible and make good choices. I want to create a safe, respectful and supportive environment where students will be able to grow and become lifelong learners. I want to emphasize that learning happens everywhere, every day and at any time. I will not only promote diversity as a member of the community, but also will emphasize diversity in terms of student learning, our classroom learning environment, and my own teaching methods. I want to educate through effective classroom management, motivate students to be fully engaged in their learning, and inspire students to value learning in all aspects of their life.
